May 2013

Dear Equine Enthusiast,

Welcome to this month's edition of Equine Guelph E-News.

"REPORT ON RESEARCH" ENGAGES INQUIRING MINDS

Hear from Equine Guelph researchers about their current projects

Equine Guelph presented an exciting full day of seminars at the University of Guelph, on April 6th, 2013, featuring Ontario Veterinary College researchers who have starred in the popular "Report on Research" video series.

Attendees for this event asked the experts their burning questions to find out more about the latest developments in equine research.

ANNOUNCING GLOBAL PERSPECTIVES IN EQUINE WELFARE -COURSE BY EQUINE GUELPH

Launching in September this year as part of the new Equine Welfare Certificate, Global Perspectives in Equine Welfare is a new online course offered by Equine Guelph which will take students through the highly emotional issues of equine welfare exploring different practices across the globe while focusing on the horses perspective.

EQUINE GUELPH
helping horses for life™

Students will study equine welfare by examining current issues of wild horse management, working horses in developing countries, racing and sport horse practises, slaughter legislation, horses in research, unwanted horses and equine rescue facilities and equine management practises. Students will also look at how the welfare of equines is regulated through the development of animal welfare legislation and how the legislation covering equine welfare differs between countries.

Course conductor, Dr. Nicki Cross comments, "The versatility of the horse means that an in depth look into its welfare in these different areas proves complex and stimulating. The course is ideal for horse owners, researchers, veterinarians, those working in the equine industries, or those concentrating on animal welfare related areas such as animal welfare policy development or enforcement, and provides a broad view on the use and welfare of equines around the globe." Dr. Cross completed a Ph.D in Neuroscience and Animal Behaviour and has managed an animal welfare research centre in Australia. In her current role Dr. Cross is working to develop welfare standards for animals in New Zealand.

ARE YOUR HORSES PROTECTED YET?

Equine Guelph's online health care tool Vaccination EquiPlanner outlines vaccination considerations for your horse.

This tool, generously sponsored by Merck Animal Health, will give you a customized immunization schedule for your horse and other critical vaccination guidelines.

Discuss your individual needs with your veterinarian.

CAN-AM FUNDRAISER FOR EQUINE GUELPH

Equine Guelph would like to extend their thanks to silent auction item donors and some very special coordinators including Janice Blakeney, and Can-Am Equine Emporium president, Ross Millar.

Thanks to generous contributions from loyal supporters of Equine Guelph, $2,500 was raised during a silent auction held on Saturday March 30 at the Can-Am show which was attended by over 7,500. Can-Am President, Ross Millar matched the monies raised at the silent auction bringing the total donation to $5,000!

THANK YOU EQUIMANIA! VOLUNTEERS

EquiMania! could not operate without the hard-working troupe of loyal horse-loving volunteers who man the hugely interactive display. Equine Guelph would like to thank all our volunteers and groups who have organized special days to bring their whole entourage down to volunteer.

Southern Cross Volunteers at Can-Am 2013

Special thanks to: Southern Cross Equestrian Facility, London CADORA, Caledon Pony Club and SARI Therapeutic Riding, for providing EquiMania! volunteers.
